Library Bound

Meredith Monk

Meredith Monk's archives get a permanent home.

Pioneering choreographer, composer and theater and film director Meredith

Monk has spent the last 40 years pushing the boundaries of interdisciplinary art. In December, the New York Public Library for the Performing Arts acquired her archives, which means that Monk's exceptionally innovative work—and much of what went into making it—will be forever accessible at the Library for the Performing Arts at Lincoln Center alongside the archives of such dance superstars as Merce Cunningham and Jerome Robbins. Included in the collection: music scores, personal notebooks, slides and photographs, correspondences, writings by and about Monk, programs, clippings and awards. Next time you're in the Big Apple, head on over to check it out. For more: nypl.org
